

Victoria Rudebark, 37 is originally from Sweden but has also lived in Switzerland and South Africa. She has now lived in Scotland for 8 years and plans to stay there. In fact, her bank won't let her leave until she's paid off a bit more of her mortgage!

Victoria collects part-time jobs, and is currently working for Crossreach (Church of Scotland's Social Work Agency), the Iona Community, and, since August 2007: Unlock Glasgow. Victoria spends her rather limited free time with her dog Cassie, reading thrillers, singing African and Scottish folk songs and doing freelance workshops about liturgy and music. And finding creative (and slightly silly) ways to look at Bible stories with fresh eyes is another of her favourite pastimes.
